Dear Students and Parents,

It's hard to believe but it is about time to begin a new school year! There are many new and exciting things in store for you this year! You may be feeling a little nervous. Guess what? I am a little nervous, too! There is a lot of excitement ahead of us, including new teachers and friends to meet, new books to read, and new skills to master. I look forward to us sharing these exciting times! I know we will be great friends in no time, and we will be having tons of fun along the way!

As a parent, you may not be a part of the teaching staff, but you are an important part of your child's education. I am hoping that we will be able to form a strong partnership between home and school to ensure that your child is reaching their fullest potential. Your child will receive the best education when parents and teachers work as a team. It is a parent's enthusiasm, support, and involvement in school that inspires children to do their best. Together we can achieve wonderful things!

I encourage you to fully embrace the moment and urge you to take time from your busy schedule to become familiar with our classroom, as well as create a homework-friendly home environment that will allow your child to excel. You are going to see your child grow in many ways this year as they gain independence and become more responsible for their own work and behavior. Thank you for your commitment to your child's education, and I look forward to seeing you in the very near future. Please contact me at any time to discuss your child's progress. Email is always the quickest form of communication in our busy schedule.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Jillian Jayme

I have found that Walmart and Target offer the best prices for supplies beginning in late July through early August. In most cases, their prices are better than the deals that can be found at Dollar Tree or Family Dollar, and the quality of the supplies should last your child through the school year.

Dear Students and Parents,

It's hard to believe but, it is time to begin a new school year. Welcome back! There are many new and exciting things in store for you this year. You may be feeling a little nervous. Guess what, I am a little nervous too. There is a lot of excitement ahead of us, including new teachers and friends to meet, new books to read, and new skills to master. As a parent, you may not be a part of the teaching staff, but you are an important part of your child's education. A good parent prepares the child for the path, not the path for the child. It is difficult as parents to take a step back and allow our children to do things for themselves and hold our children accountable for their own belongs and actions. Our children are capable of far more than we think, and giving them the opportunity to problem solve and holding them accountable will foster independence, self-confidence and a sense of responsibility. Don't allow them to give excuses!

I encourage you to fully embrace the moment and urge you to take time from your busy schedule to become familiar with our classroom. Thank you for your commitment to your child's education, and I look forward to seeing you in the very near future. Please contact me at any time to discuss your child's progress. Sincerely,

Mrs. Tara L. Puff
